the law governing the case, the legality of the evidence and the strict compliance with the Constitution. Judge Campbell, In his defense, did not deny the correctness of the testimony, but denied that the evidence was sufficient to remove. In case the Legislature failed to comply strictly with the Constitution the courts can be a constituted in the courts of the court of the cour three propositions:

Campb il No Fit Man.

First. Every Senator is morally satisfied that C. J. Campbell is not a fit person to be continued as judge of the County Court of Amherst county; should vote against the substitute and for concurrence in the House joint resolution, regardless as to how or in what manner his conscience has been satisfied by the evidence.

Ills conscience has been satisfied by the evidence.
Second, in view of the ample opportunity afforded for information as to the ovidence in this case, every Senator ought to know, and if he does not know he exposes himself to the criticism of his constituents, the consure of the House of Deigates, and is entitled to the forbedrance and patience of his brother Senators.

Third. A vote for the substitute, or to ampad the joint resolution means that C. J. Campbell will not be removed, and will lay at the door of the Senate of Viffina the responsibility of enacting the greatest farce over known in the Commonwealth.

Thigd. A vote for the substitute, or to amend the joint resolution means that C. J. Campbell will not be removed, and will any at the door of the Senate of Virgina the responsibility of cracting the greatest farce ever known in the Commonwealth.

The Tazewell Senator then proceeded to pay his respects to the position of certain Senators. He referred to Senator Opie's confession that he was prejudiced, and stated that he did not believe the Staunton Senator was prejudiced, but thit he was like the indian's tree, he atood so straight that he leaned backward. Referring to the Staunton Senator's statement that the record of the House proceeding was no more evidence for the Senate in this case than were the newspaper reports, Mr. Harman took the ground that even the newspaper reports were sufficient to justify the Senate in concurring in the House folin resolution. He characterized Senator Opie's attitude as that of a jury agreeding to a verific of guilty, but not proven.

The speech of Mr. Harvey was next dissected by Mr. Rarman. He took lasue with Mr. Harvey, that it was necessary to have cause to remove a judge. In reply to Mr. Harvey's contention that the Senate must have evidence legally taken, not hearsay, Mr. Harman pointed cut that hearsay evidence is admitted in criminal cases even as to character, and therefore in the greatest that Mr. Watkins seven as hearing in any way.

Case of Wool-Gathering.

As to Mr. Watkins, of Prince Edward, the speaker declared that the same cloud hangs over the usually bright mind. Some one facetiously interjected that it was not a cloud of harf, a sity reference to Senator Watkins' incipient baldness. Mr. Harman added that the Senator from Prince, Edward "was wool gathering on the inside." Reswinds phis argument after this by play, the Tazewoil Senator Charsed that Mr. Watkins segue the whole considered the speaking for the day.

Case of Wool-Gathering.

As to Mr. Wathins, of Prince Edward, the speaker declared that the same cloud hangs over the usually bright mind. Some one facetiously interjected that it was not a cloud of hair, a sly reference to Senator Watkins' incipient baldness. Mr. Hannan added that the Senator from Prince, Edward "was wool gathering on the inside." Resuming his argument after this by play, the Tazewell Senator charged that Mr. Watkins gave the whole question away when he admits that he did know personally, but not officially, of the lifewise procedure in this case, in Impetitional to the correct but this was not such a case.

the House proceedings this position would be correct but this was not such a case.

In paying his respects to Mr. McIlwaine, as he expressed it, he charged that the Senator claimed that he did not know anything, and glorled in his efforts to keep from knowing. Brough had leaked out, however, in the report drawn by the Senator from Petersburg to show that he know a little more than he admitted, and just here the speaker read from the report, showing that Mr. Mc Ilwaine was familiar with the procedure in the House and with the tlaws in the record. He railied the Senator on his chasing of technicalities, and humorously recalled the days when he (the speaker) rode a sitick horse and imagined he was actified a fiery charger. He likened Mr. McIlwaine's attifud; in attaching so much importance to technicalities to riding stick horses.

Mr. Harman fine draw an analogy between the powers of the General Assembly and its methods of work and those of the courts. He spoke of the work of commissioners in chancery and others, whom he characterized as the ears of the courts. It was not necessary for the court itself to hear everything; it could do so through its ears. The co-ordinate branch of the General Assembly was the Senate's ears in this case, and in addition to this it had the action of half the Committee for Courts of Justice.

Coreators of Judges,

The speaker contended that the General Assembly was the Senate's ears in this case, and in addition to this it had the action of half the Committee for Courts of Justice.

Creators of Judges,

The speaker contended that the General Assembly were the creators of judges and could annul as well as create. We, the potters, judge the clay, said he. Shall the creature say to him who hath formed it, "Why hast thou made me thus?"

The speaker opposed any amendment to the Cogbill resolution, which he had signed. The House has proceeded properly, he contended, and will refuse to take up the case again; hence, non-consurrence by the Senate in the House respiction means final useful of this case, and will place at the door of the Senate will place as the door of the Senate will place at the door of the Senate will place as the door of the Senate will place as a for making one originally. With this humorous closing of a speech, in which much wit and pleasantry had been interfected, the preacher-Senator closed his argument amid applause.

Mr. Andersen, of Richmond city, followed Mr. Harmon, and was the last speaker of the evening. He arose with an open copy of the State Constitution in his hand and covered first the constitutional phases of the case. He took the ground that the General Assembly must give notice as required, and that it must spread upon the journal of each house the causes for removal, and that removal must be by concurrent vote of both houses and a majority of each house. He spoke of the omission of the House to enter the causes of removal on the journal, but believed this defect was one which might and should be readily remedied. He had offered an amendment proposing such a remedy as was neces-

FOR PROSPECTUSES

Scenes in Lobbies of Bank of England Resembled a Foot-Ball Scrimmage.

(By Associated Press.) LONDON, May 7.—The Issue of the awaited with the greatest interest in financial circles here, and there was a scene of considerable excitement at the Bank of England to-day, where thousands of people congregated hours before it was finally given out that the prospectus announced the issue of $150,000,100 of the $175,000.000 authorized, and that the price would be at par with interest at 8 per cent. The loan to redeemable in 1953. A sinking fund of 1 per cent, will be ap-plied to the purchase of stock when be-piled to the purchase of stock when below par.

The rush for prospectuses was unprecedented. At the hour of issue thousands of people stood in the pouring rain, four deep, in the streets leading to the Bank of the bank during the first issuing of the prospectuses resembled a foot-ball scrimmage, in which the weakest went to the wall. Later street hawkers sold copies of the prospectus as fast as they could get the cash. Crowds continued to enter the bank long after the usual closing hour.

THE BAPTIST

INTERRED AT MT. OLIVET WASHINGTON, D. C., May 7.—The re-mains of Ganeral J. C. Clark, who died at tor of money, nor does it allow itself to be even a channel through which money passes to the boards. It does not handle mission money at all.

It does not undestake in any way to direct the work of the boards in the matter of agency work at home, mission work on the fields or in the appointment of missionary workers. All of these matters are left to the judgment of the boards, and the union does not even go so far as to recommend lady workers to the boards.

It does not set in operation any agencies for eliciting contributions, even from societies except such as are suggested on approved by the boards. The suggestions as to objects to be worked for year by year comes from the boards, and are presented to the union at its annual meetings, which are always held at the same time and place with the convention.

ITS OBJECT.

Its object is simply to interest the women of the churches in the cause of missions, and also the children. To this end there are State organizations in each of the fourieen States, working under the advice of the union, and in a great majority of the churches there are now Woman's Missionary Societies. These are furnished with literature from the mission rooms in Baltimore, and thus the work of education in missions is carrying the gospel to the utermost parts of the world.

THE RESULTS.

That the work of the union has been eminently successful a few figures will show. The women composing the union and the State and local societies have raised and paid over to the boards the amounts following: In 1895, 330,73.69; in 1890, $31,227.75; in 1891, $38,203.31; in 1892, $44,223.69; in 1893, $323.73.75; in 1894, $32,326.75; in 1895, $34,223.69; in 1897, $32,407.61; in 1823, $358,233.51; in 1892, $34,232.60; in 1897, $32,407.61; in 1823, $358,233.51; in 1892, $34,232.60; in 1897, $32,407.61; in 1893, $323.73.51; in 1894, $32,326.73; in 1990, $32,236.75; in 1897, $32,407.61; in 1897, $32,407.61; in 1893, $32,326.75; in 1894, $32,326.75; in 1897, $32,407.61; in 1893, $32,326.75; in 1894, $32,326.75; in 1

An Attractive List of Underpriced Items, Principally

Ribbons and Laces

THE fascination of getting something for less than it should really sell is strong in all of us. It approaches infatuation when the item happens to be a thing of present style and of every day usefulness. There are few folks who cannot be tempted by an announcement of bargains, yet this store never feels the necessity of applying such title to its offerings. It has been suid before and it is true that the word is hackneyed and much misused, but it has a clear and distinct meaning which applies in all its fullness to the items told of below. Heading the list is

A Remarkable Sale of Laces.

Some thousands of yards of Plat Valenciennes and Point de Paris, Edges and Insertions; some may be slightly soiled, all are otherwise perfect; the widths are from two to five inches; prices should be 16 2-3c to 25c; pick them at IIc.

Fine Reverings; drawn work, lace effects in muslins for trimmings for shirt waists, for yokes for big or for little people, some white or ecru, 40 inches wide.

White Reverings, were $1 to $1.25, for 69c. Ecru Reverings, were $1 to $1.25, for 49c.

La Toscin Nets, good, strong and substantial, 45 inches wide, worth $1.00 a yard, Dainty Ribbons. Temptingly Priced.

A few warm days will emphasize how useful and how necessary a supply of pretty fresh ribbons is to one's summer toilet. That supply may be as big as you like, as new as you wish, as good as you care for and as cheap as you can buy. You have only to con-sult this Ribbon Section. Here is a hint or two:

Mousseline Taffeta Ribbons in dainty, desirable tintings, black and white, a close woven perfect ribbon for whatever purpose, 4 inches wide, at 19c.

Taffeta Ribbons, a splendid, lustrous, all-silk ribbon, in black and white and shades of pink, blue and Nile, in 8 to 4½ luch widths, at 10c, Colored Velvet Ribbons, satin backed, light shades and high colors, probably the most complete assortment in Richmond; numbers 3 to 22, prices 12 1-2c to 45c.
